Will Grant be Renominated? Gen. GRANT's prospects for a renomina tion are, in our opinion, none of the best. True, he has at his beck and call an immense army of office-holders, and in the South not only all the Government officials, but a vast mass of ignorant negroes. Neverhim which it will be next to impossible to

In the first place, the practice of nomi nating the incumbent of the Presidential office for a second term had gone out of fashlon before the war. Mr. Lincoln was elected twice; but that was because war was flagrant when the Nominating Conventien was in session, and it was thought that it would never do to encourage the rebels by dropping the man whose election had caused the rebellion. As he himself phrased it, "It was no time to swap horses whilst crossing a stream." No such circumstances exist now, and both parties will hereafter probably fall into the ante-

Secondly, Gen. GRANT has allenated the leading men of the Republican partythose who were Republicans when it was unpopular to be such. SUMNER is opposed to his renomination. SUMNER will exercise delegates to the National Convention from the New England States. Senator FENTON. of New York, is an anti-GRANT man. FENron is the most successful wire-worker in the Republican ranks. So potent is his influence in the Empire State that it may be set send anti-Grant delegates, or else two full the renomination of GRANT. So is GEORGE and other cities. WM. CURTIS, the bigoted editor of Harper's Weekly. These names alone ought to insure the success of GRANT's opponents in casion to desert it again. New York. Gov. GEARY, of Pennsylvania, may be ranked with the New York malcontents. He and his numerous friends will go against GRANT.

Thirdly, there is a large class of political their choice. He is uncouth, ignorant, and intractable. They want to see a statesman in the office. These free-lances will give GRANT much trouble. Those brilliant writers, George Alfred Townsend and Donn Platt are among the number. They never lose an opportunity to express their contempt for GRANT; and the journals for which they write are nothing loth to assist them in their praiseworthy efforts. The Cincinnati Commercial and the Chicago Tribune-perhaps the most influential papers in the Northwest-are the ones to which we refer. We refer to them, however, and to Platt and Townsend, merely as types of a whole class.

Fourthly, CARL SCHURZ is opposed to the renomination of GRANT. He is by a long of hungry Radicals whose only hope for plunder lies in a change of administrations. Let them open upon GRANT's track, and the pleasure of beating him in 1872.

Gen. Washington and Gov. Posey.

The Cincinnati Commercial recently sent a trusty reporter to Indiana, "charged with "the duty of visiting Indianapolis, and "every other portion of the State neces-"sary where information of any descrip-"tlen rising to the dignity of evidence "might be obtained tending to elucidate "the subject, and either verify or disprove "the statements of the aforesaid corres-" pondent "-that is, those which went to show that General Washington was the father of Governor Posey. That correspondent writes:

"Arriving at Indianapolis I proceeded at once to institute inquiry in regard to the matter, addressing myself only to citizens of such age, experience, eminent position in society, and worth of character as that their very names, if I chose to name them, would stand as a guarantee for their perfect truth, sincerity, and reliability. I heard but one statement from any who had any knowledge or opinion whatever on the sub-ject, and state it as the general result and conclusion of my interrogation, and that was that the material, essential particulars of your first correspondent's statement were correct, as the story has been generally received and talked about; that it was a tradition a long time ago with the generation that has passed away from among the living, and was then often conversed at the social gatherings of the of the circuit, at log-rollings, and at the farm-house firesides.

The universal testimony of all who knew him was that he bore a remarkable pernim before would observe it; the likeuess and proper for the enforcement of that prowas so striking as to be absolutely startling, and looking upon him one would be partioned for imagining for a moment that the great Chief himself was before him again in the flesh. One very singular circumstance is related of him-that although his library was provided with a good collection of biographies of Washington, and he had in his possession the private papers of his father, he was never known by any one to mention his name, but studiously avoided of the United States, and therefore invalid. even a remote allusion to him."

SENATOR THURNAN.-We took occasion recently to express our opinion that Mr. THURMAN, of Ohio, was a Senator of whom his State should be proud. A Washington Church. correspondent of the leading Republican journal in Boston-the Advertiser-says of "The Democrats in the Senate have gained in ability. Mr. Thurman is manifestly and easily their leader still. He commands not only the fealty of his own party, but the respect of his opponents. Vigorous, quick, cool, keen, self-poised, courteous and dignified, he need only be an orator to command the very highest positheless, there are influences at work against tion in the gift of his party. Compared with such men as Hoffman, Seymour, and Pendleton, he is a giant of intellectual strength and sagacity. But his manner, westerner though he is, is hard and dry, and lacking in that magnetism which the man should have who is to receive the tumultuous voices of the National Convention of the party of great expectations in

We know nothing as to his powers as an orator; but we know that as a lawyer he has no superior in the Senate, as every one competent to judge can see for himself by reading the official reports of the debates in the Senate.

OFF FOR RICHMOND-The Tide Turning. Messrs. Scott and Gallagher, two of our citizens, both of whom carry on the busiless of merchandising, the former in Wytheville and the latter in Grayson county, leave this week for Richmond, where they anticipate purchasing their spring goods. are glad to see our merchants turning their attention to Richmond as a market, and hope they will be so well satisfied that they a powerful influence in securing anti-GRANT will deal there in future. All things indicate that Richmond is gradually recovering the Southwestern trade, which she enjoyed almost exclusively before the war, and which rightfully belongs to her. - Wytheville Enterprise.

We are glad to hear of such facts. Richmond ought to be able to command the down as certain that that State will either trade of Southwest Virginia. The people there wish to trade with her. GENERAL BUTLER was, for a wonder, over reached in the House of Representatives on Monday by Mr. Hale and the members who introduced and rushed through the amnesty bill while he was at work perfecting a bill free-thinkers in the Republican party, of a similar nature. They took the credit whose self-respect is wounded whenever of authorship of the measure away from they think of GRANT as the President of him, but Gen. Butler should receive as much honor, for the will as if he had performed the deed .- Balto. American.

By no means. Butler's so-called amnesty bill was a mockery and a delusion. It would have been scorned by the southern people. It was intended more for the protection of Butler than for the benefit of the disqualified southrons. And, then, it proposed to grant amnesty upon such conditions as no gentleman would have assented to. It was, in fact, like Butler-low, grovelling, mean, and despicable. The House did well to avail itself of a bill prepared by a gentleman.

The negroes, the carpet-baggers, and the scalawags of South Carolina, have so managed public affairs in that State as to have given the people about as much as odds the most influential German in the they can do to attend to their own busi-United States. JUDGE RANDALL'S DECISION.—The decision of Judge Randall, of the fifteenth judical circuit, admitting negro testimony against white men in a Kentucky court, is such a noticeable and important event that we publish his opinion in full. The points held in his supplementary characters to the and the the commonwealth:
